Trauma Response in Pediatric Populations

August 16,2019 | 11:00am-12:00pm

Description:

The training is to serve as an overview of trauma response in a pediatric population. Trauma presents differently in children at different ages and often trauma is reprocessed as a child ages. Its impact is global and trauma response is often misidentified and mistreated. This course will describe the impacts of trauma, how it presents in children, and how interventions are best applied for children with trauma experience.

Learning Outcomes:

On successful completion of the activity the participant will be able to:

- List diagnostic criteria for trauma disorders
- Identify prevalence of traumatic events
- Recognize symptoms of trauma in children
- Identify other disorders often misdiagnosed when a child experienced trauma
- List treatments for trauma disorders and identify inappropriate interventions for trauma disorders
