Pharmacology and Anesthesia for the Surgical Technologist

9:00 AM – 4:00 PM  Check in @ 8:45 AM
Conference Room A/B – Patwood Corporate Service Center – 255 Enterprise Boulevard – Greenville, SC 29615
Kathy Patnaude, BS, CST

Purpose: To provide review of perioperative medication.

Description: The Surgical Technology Pharmacology and Anesthesia course has been designed to give the surgical technologist an extensive review/overview of perioperative medications, indications, contraindications and applications. This review session is designed as a refresher course and will incorporate visuals. As this knowledge is organized by the learner, it should then allow the surgical technologists’ responses to be quick and error-free in the intraoperative setting, thus ensuring patient safety.

OBJECTIVE:
Upon completion, participants will be able to:

- Discuss terms and abbreviations of surgical pharmacology and anesthesia.
- Apply the processes of medication as described in the role of the surgical technologist.
- Discuss pharmacodynamics and pharmacokinetics of surgical pharmacology and anesthesia.
- Differentiate between brand, generic and chemical drug labels and describe the categories of drugs and solutions used intraoperatively.
- Review pharmacology math.
- Describe various drugs and methods of anesthesia used intraoperatively.
