

Moving from Talk to Action with Results-Based Accountability™

Results-Based Accountability™ (RBA) is a disciplined way of thinking and acting to improve entrenched and complex social problems. It is a data-driven decision-making process to help communities and organizations get beyond talking about problems to solving them.

This blended training has two parts:

1. Online module focused on foundational principles
2. Live session that covers application and implementation

After completing the online module and receiving your certificate, you will be eligible to attend the live session and will be contacted via email with date/time information and instructions on how to register.

Program Objectives for the Online Module

At the completion of this activity, participants will be able to:

- Define the three (3) main guiding principles of the results-based accountability (RBA) framework.
- Explain the value of common language, a guiding principle of the results-based accountability (RBA) framework.
- Discuss how population accountability applies to whole populations (communities, cities, counties, states, nations).
- Describe how performance accountability applies to client populations (programs, organizations, agencies, service systems).
- Identify the purpose of the five core questions of Turn the Curve Thinking that moves from talk to action.
- Recognize what it looks like when a community is applying the results-based accountability (RBA) method.
