

Advancing Rural Health Equity Through Transformational Leadership

Presenter: Benjamin Anderson

In this module, participants will hear from Benjamin Anderson, Vice President for Rural Health and Hospitals at the Colorado Hospital Association, on the growing health disparities between rural and urban communities across the United States and how to empower and equip leaders to transform their own rural communities. This module includes a recorded presentation, discussion forum, and evaluation.

Learning Objectives:

- Identify health disparities between rural and urban Americans.
- Define transformational leadership.
- Discuss examples of how measurable health outcomes have been improving through transformational leadership.
- Examine tools for transformational leadership to apply in your own communities.
